

Open Your Content for Business

LicenseStream reduces costs, increases business visibility and generates new revenue opportunities by making your content intelligent.

Monetizing Content in a Fragmented Media Landscape is Challenging

Managing, distributing, monitoring and monetizing content on the Web is a nearly impossible task for content owners and distributors. When content is distributed and transactions are conducted, manual processes and multiple layers of administration needlessly diminish revenues.

LicenseStream Makes Your Content Intelligent

LicenseStream automates the costly processes of content licensing and royalty settlement, creating new efficiencies by making your content intelligent. Intelligent content moves freely across the Web with defined ownership, rights and restrictions, enabling flexible pricing based on use. By making your content intelligent and automating the process you will dramatically improve your profit margin and open new revenue opportunities.

Transform the Way You Monetize Digital Assets

- Eliminate legacy tools and time-consuming manual processes by automating licensing and royalty transactions, significantly reducing operating costs.
- Consolidate all content reporting on one platform, enabling smarter planning, consistent metrics and a 360-degree view of all your licensing efforts.
- Establish content ownership using technology built to meet PLUS organization's global standards.
- Easily apply complex business rules and confidently distribute content across multiple channels.
- Track content assets across the Web and turn infringing use into a revenue-generating opportunity with our automated tools.
- Completely automate royalty settlement and participate in each transaction.

Content That Moves with the Web

Whether content is monetized via subscription, ad-supported delivery or direct download, LicenseStream can optimize your content lifecycle to improve your bottom-line.
